

SOCIETY NOTESBulletin 34

Herewith, as they say, for the favour of your attention Bulletin 34. It maintains the concentration on some area of interest this time Co-operation and the Consumer but its scope has been extended to accommodate other items. The adoption of a "Special Feature" for a particular Bulletin gives us the chance of a distinctive role in Co-operative publications - a regular journal devoted in a particular issue to independent and comparatively detailed examination by a variety of contributors of some important co-operative problem. This format has been well received but it should not become a strait-jacket. Accordingly outside the direct engagement with the Movement's response to consumerism we include Mr Edmondson and Mr O'Brien - valuable individually and making a nice balance together.

Bulletin 35

The next Bulletin due out in March 1979 will be concerned in the main with Politics and Co-operation: covering the case and the methods for the Movement to influence political discussion and action in general; the particular role of the Co-operative Party; and Co-operative attitudes and policies on some specially significant questions. We hope to include contributors of different views from British experience and also from experience in other Movements and countries.

Conference and AGM 1979

This Conference will be based on Bulletin 35 and will be held at Stanford Hall, 20/21 April.
